

VBS Tail Docking Standards

The tail should be docked in line with the top of the black on the lamb's hocks. The easiest and most common method to do this is with a rubber ring or band which should be used within the first week of life. The band reduces the blood supply to the tail and it will fall off in a few weeks. Please see below photos of before, during and after the band has been applied.

